A Government Gets Tough

It is strange language that is coming out of government offices these days—strange, that is, for the government of a democracy. But the same kind of language is coming out of the bureaus of our sister democracy, Great Britain, so you know it is due to the pressure of war.

U. S. Planes Big Factor in Fight Against Rommel

—Africa

Cairo, Aug. 1.—(P)—United States bombers caused wide damage during the week to Axis supply ports in North Africa and Crete and to enemy convoys moving across the Mediterranean to the dust-strewn army of Marshal Erwin Rommel, a U. S. communiqué said today.

On the desert front 80 miles west of Alexandria, whirling sand storms reduced the fighting to active patrolling by British forces but there were occasional artillery duels, the British announced.

The Axis bombed the environs of Cairo—Holy City of the Moslems and the Egyptian capital—again last night in defiance of Prime Minister Winston Churchill's standing threat to retaliate against Rome.

Five persons were killed and 12 injured by several bombs which caused slight damage. Warnings also sounded in Alexandria and the Suez canal area and elsewhere in upper and lower Egypt.

Three enemy planes were destroyed.

Although the dust curtailed the RAF, fighter-bombers attacked land convoys and an enemy headquarters in the desert.

Included in the American operations was a daylight attack on a large transport under the convoy of seven destroyers and one cruiser off southern Greece. At least one bomber scored hits on the transport.

In S. Bombers sent many medium tanks in the Tabruk dock area earlier in the week. One blaze which spread over a large area was believed to have been a gasoline storage dump.

Several ships were hit in a raid on Suda Bay in Crete.

Repair facilities in Eritrea are beginning to show results, the communiqué said, "many planes are now flying again after being wrecked in operations."

The United States started erecting a vast supply and repair base in Eritrea many months ago.

Japs Start New Drive

Chungking, Aug. 1.—(P)—Japanese troops have landed anew on the Chekiang province coast, this time 30 miles south of Wenchow, and have started a drive inland, the Chinese high command announced tonight.

Other Japanese forces operating from Wenchow and the inland Chekiang town of Lishui have recaptured Tsingting, 22 miles inland from Wenchow, a communiqué said.

Farther west, in eastern Kiangsi province, heavy casualties were reported on the invaders south of Kwangfeng.

The Japanese first attempted to land troops from four launches at the mouth of the Ao river south of Wenchow on July 27, but were repelled, the Chinese said.

Later six Japanese gunboats and dozens of launches appeared at the same place, landed and pushed inland.

Japs Extend Solomon Hold

General MacArthur's Headquarters, Australia, Aug. 1.—(P)—The Japanese have extended their hold on the Solomon Islands east of New Guinea by establishing themselves on Guadalcanal island, a suitable site for air bases, General MacArthur's headquarters reported today.

The disclosure was made in a communiqué relating that Japanese installations at Kukum on the north shore of the island were attacked yesterday by Allied planes which also damaged a large enemy cargo ship off the coast.

Other bombers operating far to the northwest attacked and "probably hit" Japanese cruiser in the Banda sea south of Ambonia in the Dutch East Indies, the bulletin said.

The Japanese began moving into

Agriculture Heads Meet in Little Rock

Little Rock, Aug. 1.—(P)—Produce and agricultural leaders met at the capitol today to discuss the feasibility of extending the egg dehydrating program in Arkansas. Here from Washington were T. W. Sampson, representing the agriculture department, and H. K. Thatcher, state agriculture and industrial commission director, who met with representatives of the state extension service and farm bureau.

Thatcher said a new egg dehydrating plant at Fayetteville was scheduled for approval in addition to one already approved for Pocahontas and one in operation at Harrison.

"These should pretty largely take care of the egg marketing problem in the north and northwest part of the state," Thatcher said.

FBI Unearths Jap Spy Ring

New York, Aug. 1.—(P)—The presence in the United States of a band recruited by Japan's Black Dragon society to aid a possible invasion has been disclosed by the FBI with the announcement of the arrest of an alleged organizer for the group, which claims $100,000 members.

The prisoner, Mingo De Guzman, 42, a Filipino, of Washington, D. C., was described by the FBI as an active figure in a drive to form a fifth column among Negroes in America.

P. E. Foxworth, assistant FBI director, said yesterday in telling of the Filipino's arrest, that one of the stated purposes of the group—"the Pacific movement in the eastern world"—was to assist the Japanese in an invasion of the United States.

Foxworth said De Guzman served in the U. S. navy from 1918 to 1930, had been dishonorably discharged from the coast guard, and some 19 false names, had a long criminal record and was wanted in Washington for violating the postal laws.

He was arrested Thursday evening and charged with failing to return his draft questionnaire.

Foxworth said De Guzman informed his recruits that "the Japanese will supply you with rifles when the time for invasion comes, but to buy and store all the firearms they could to prepare for 'the day'."

De Guzman waived a hearing before a U. S. commissioner, and was held in $10,000 bail. Assistant U. S. Attorney J. Gerard Cregan said he probably would be removed to Washington today.

Foxworth quoted the prisoner as saying that before 1938 he had organized branches of the movement in St. Louis, Indianapolis, Kansas City, Mo., Cincinnati, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and New York, and that a Japanese army major had formed others in Cleveland, Detroit and Chicago.

Group Defines Election Ruling

At a meeting here yesterday in which election returns were officially tabulated the Democratic Central Committee passed a resolution defining a previous ruling to not let the same officials serve in both county elections.

Under the resolution any official who served or was asked to serve in the preferential primary will not be eligible to serve in the runoff primary August 11.

There was little change resulting from the official canvass.

Negro Rapist Quickly Sentenced to Die

Texarkana, Tex., Aug. 1.—(P)—After deliberating only 35 minutes, a district court jury yesterday found Matt Williams, a Negro, guilty on a charge of criminally assaulting a four-year-old white girl, and sentenced him to die in the electric chair.

Williams testified that rangers and county officers beat a confession out of him and that he admitted the crime rather than "have them kill me."

Court-appointed attorneys for the Negro objected to introduction of his signed confession on the grounds that it was obtained under duress.

Thomas C. Cranford in Navy, San Diego

Thomas Carrol Cranford, 603 Pond street, Hope, in the United States Navy, has been transferred to the Naval Training Station at San Diego, Calif., according to an official Navy release to The Star.

Pace Stepped Up by Japanese in Pacific Area

—War in Pacific

Chungking, Aug. 1.—(P)—United States army pilots tore into a formation of 29 Japanese Zero planes over Hengyang airdrome yesterday and shot down nine in a fierce air battle without losing a single pilot, Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's headquarters announced today.

A tenth Japanese plane was reported damaged and was believed to have crashed, although its destruction was not officially confirmed.

The engagement was described as the biggest aerial battle in this theater since the "Flying Tigers" of the American Volunteer Group were absorbed by the U. S. Army air force on July 4.

It brought to 17 the number of planes lost by the Japanese in attempts to raid the Hunan province airdrome in the past two days.

Four of nine Japanese bombers which approached the airdrome before daylight Thursday were shot down by American fighters and four zero fighters were destroyed later in the day.

The night air battle was described as "particularly noteworthy." It was the first time any Japanese planes had been shot down over China at night.

Although they again escaped without casualties yesterday the Americans lost three pursuit planes—one of which was knocked out while undergoing repairs on the ground.

Kentucky to Polls Today

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 1.—(P)—In ten hours of voting today, Kentucky Democrats will write the verdict to a primary campaign which had a swimming pool as its chief issue.

The voting will determine whether Senator A. B. "Happy" Chandler or John Young Brown, Lexington attorney, is to be the Democrats' nominee for the United States Senate.

Brown has made Chandler's acceptance of a swimming pool in the backyard of his Versailles home as a gift from Ben Collings, Louisville contractor, the single major issue of the contest, which has overshadowed the Republican and congressional campaigns.

Brown charged that 8,000 pounds of war-victim medals were used in construction of the pool. Senate and War Production Board investigations absolved Chandler of being influenced to obtain government contracts for Collings and of violating priorities regulations.

Chandler admitted that he accepted the pool as a gift, but said it was offered and received "purely out of friendship." He denied he had done any wrong.

Chandler has the backing of the state's Democratic leaders, including his colleague, Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley, but several of these have "conceded" that when "Happy" accepted the gift swimming pool, he made a "mistake."

While Chandler said he expected a total vote of approximately 250,000, Brown said he believed the vote would reach at least 350,000.

Chandler plans to leave for the Pacific coast and Alaska on a Senate inspection trip tonight, which means he will depart probably before the vote count is completed.

The polls open at 6 a. m. and close at 4 p. m. local time and the counting of ballots starts an hour after the closing. Counting, if not completed, must be stopped at midnight and resumed Monday.

Police investigating complaints of eerie sounds and strange 'ghost lights' in the Peters home, cornered Cornish in a cubbyhole four feet wide, seven feet long, with roof so low a man could not sit straight.

Joint Income Tax Predicted

—Washington

Washington, Aug. 1.—(P)—Revival of a treasury proposal to require joint income tax returns from married couples was predicted today by Senator Walsh (D-Mass.) who said the Senate Finance committee ought to do everything within its power to increase the House-approved revenue bill by $2,500,000,000.

The committee voted last Monday not to consider further a treasury suggestion, previously turned down by the House Ways and Means committee, for mandatory joint returns from husbands and wives.

This proposal, calculated to bring in an additional $420,000,000 in revenue, by forcing many taxpayers into higher rate brackets, was one of the chief sources Secretary Morgenthau advised tapping in an attempt to approach the treasury's goal of $8,700,000,000 in additional taxes. The House-approved measure would increase taxes by $5,200,000,000.

Walsh declared that the finance committee, of which he is the ranking Democratic member next to Chairman George D. Aker, may have to reverse its decision on this question or be charged with failing to provide sufficient revenues to help finance the war.

"I am in favor of assessing the full amount of taxes that the treasury has asked," Walsh told reporters. "I don't think congress can afford to fall down on this nor do I think it wants to be put in the position where anyone can pass the buck to it and say that it did not provide the money that was needed."

Boy Producer Has Good Show

Omaha, Aug. 1.—(P)—Jerry Young, 14-year-old Omaha producer, staged a benefit show in his back yard for a dime admission last night that headlined Bud Abbott and Lou Costello, the comedy team. Jerry hired his stars for 35 cents each, but Costello almost lost his shirt—literally—in the deal.

Jerry persuaded the stars to appear after slipping past guards to gain entrance to their hotel room. The show attracted approximately 2,000 persons and all proceeds went to the Red Cross. Costello cabined with his shirt when Abbott parted with his shirt when Abbott offered to sell it. Lou kept it by outbidding all others with a $12 offer.

Jerry was master of ceremonies and in addition to Abbott and Costello other youngsters in the neighborhood took part in the production. The audience overflowed into

Large RAF Force Blasts German Cities Overnight

London, Aug. 1.—(P)—The RAF blasted the Rhineland industrial center of Duesseldorf for an hour last night and attacked targets in northern France and the low countries in a sustained offensive from which 31 planes failed to return, the air ministry announced today.

A "very strong force" of bombers was reported to have participated in the attack upon Duesseldorf—the 47th assault upon that city but the first since Sept. 27, 1941, when raid represented a round trip of 600 miles.

Among the industrial plants situated at Duesseldorf are the Rheinmetall Iron and Steel works, which compare in size and importance to the Krupp armament works, and the Vereinigte Stahlwerke (United Steel Works). The latter is one of the four biggest plants of its kind in Germany.

Adkins Seeks Ruling on Bench Vacancy

Little Rock, Aug. 1.—(P)—Governor Adkins today sought an attorney general's ruling on procedure for filling a vacancy on the 13th circuit bench.

Judge L. S. Britt of El Dorado, unopposed for reappointment in the August 11 primary, died Wednesday night.

Men Wanted for Ordnance

The automobile dealers of this territory will be host to an important visitor on a war mission of vital interest to all Arkansas. Major N. C. F. Nielsen from the Office of the Chief of Ordnance in Washington, D. C., will arrive here to aid in the formation of new Ordnance units being activated in Arkansas.

Composed of officers and men from this state two Ordnance Maintenance Companies have headquarters at the Arkansas Ordnance Plant. Each of these companies will consist of over 200 officers and men recruited from Arkansas' ample supply of automobile men, mechanics, and repairmen.

Major Nielsen is down from Washington to assist Captain Haco Boyd, who will command one of the companies. Captain Boyd is a native of Little Rock, and before being commissioned in the Army of the United States was associated with the automobile industry and civic organizations within the boundaries of the State of Arkansas over a period covering more than twenty years, and has a host of friends and associates whom we feel surely wish to, and will, assist him in the development of these two units.

When questioned on the organization of the units, Captain Boyd said, "The Maintenance Companies being formed will be completely composed of automobile and machinery men from this area. William Harold Sadler, (President) and Mr. Link, (Secretary) of the Arkansas Automobile Dealers Association, who are affiliated with the National Automobile Dealers Association, are directing the efforts of their organization in obtaining men from these highly qualified for specialized maintenance work on tanks, armored vehicles, field artillery, small arms, machine guns, and fire control instruments. The main job of these companies will be to reduce, through maintenance work, the 'down' time that is the time out for fighting equipment to be repaired and put back into combat. The companies will be responsible for keeping the Army's fighting machines rolling day and night."

Major Nielsen amplified on the specific job requirements, stating, "Because these companies will be primarily on mechanical repair work, there is need for many types of workers such as machinists, blacksmiths, welders, carpenters, painters, electricians, toolmakers, gunsmiths, leather and canvas workers, as well as clerks, cooks, storekeepers, and such. The age limits are 18 to 45 with all applicants required to meet the physical standards for unlimited service."

The recruiting of these two companies will start at Texarkana, Ark., at the Grim Hotel Monday, August 3, and will continue through Tuesday, August 4. The following points of recruiting: Fort Smith, Texarkana, El Dorado, Jonesboro and Helena. Dates for interviewing applicants at the latter points will be given later through the local newspapers and radio announcements. It is the desire of the Ordnance Department to complete the recruiting of these two companies within two weeks.

Adkins Overrules Highway Policy

Little Rock, Aug. 1.—(P)—The highway department's new policy of withholding from publication any progress reports on applications for asphalt supplies to complete highway projects stayed in effect only until Governor Adkins heard about it.

Adkins overruled Highway Director W. M. Mitchell and last night instructed the department to resume issuing the progress reports for publication.

Mitchell, who announced the non-publication policy, said some towns whose applications are disapproved may think the department failed to pursue their bids as thoroughly as others "so to avoid criticism, we just won't say anything more about it."

But the governor felt differently. London—British today forbade travelers to carry food to Eire, however small the quantity. The regulation apparently was intended to prevent any drain of Britain's foods.

Germans Claim Salsk, Main Rail Point Captured

By EDDY GILMORE
Moscow, Aug. 1.—(P)—German divisions fanned out against Red Army defenses below the lower Don today, reaching toward the Azov sea coast and pressing ever deeper into the West Caucasus, but Soviet soldiers defending the river bend before Stalingrad were reported holding their own and counterattacking.

Bloody hand-to-hand engagements marked some of the battles southwest, south and southeast of Bataisk—15 miles from Rostov—and Nazi pressure forced further Russian withdrawals.

Russian shore batteries and marines were reported in action south west of Bataisk, indicating the invaders were within striking distance of the southern beaches on the gulf of Taganrog if not the Azov shores.

How It Originated:
 The word "tonnage," which is used in referring to the cubical content, burden, or capacity of a ship, originated as "tunnage" and was used to designate the tuns, or casks, of wine the ship could carry.

Miss Gene Givens and Lt. Stark Are Married Friday

In a quiet and impressive ceremony at the First Methodist church parsonage Friday afternoon, Miss Gene Givens, daughter of Mrs. J. C. Givens of Hope, became the bride of Lieutenant William N. Stark, United States Aviation Corps, of Emmet, Arkansas.

The Reverend Kenneth L. Spore, read the double ring rites in the presence of relatives and intimate friends. There were no attendants. The bride was lovely in a dusty pink dress of spun linen with which she wore navy and white accessories. On her shoulder was pinned a single orchid.

Immediately after the ceremony, the couple left for Hot Springs. The bride, who is secretary to Dr. L. M. Lile, will join Lt. Stark at his post, Ft. McClelland, Alabama, next month.

Unknown Pars Keller Course

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 1—(AP)—The way the par-wreckers are going to work on the Keller public course in the $5,000 St. Paul Open, a fellow who cuts a couple of strokes off regulation figures finds himself blushing instead of boasting.

Clayton Haefer, the candy kid of the Carolinas, who was backed with heavy sugar to win the $1,000 jackpot, proved he wasn't a mountain climber and trudged in with a 75. This left him so far behind that there was slight hope of his overthrowing the top of the field.

Taking over the 18-hole leadership was 26-year-old Bob Hamilton of Evansville, Ind. He recently won the Hoosier State Open. Hamilton was being ripped off sub-par scores in practice rounds and didn't slow down a bit in posting a 34-33-67.

Chick Harbert thought he was safe with a 68, but before he could catch his breath, Lawson Little, Gene Kunes of Philadelphia, and the veteran Jimmy Hines came up beside him. In all, 26 of his eggs broke par 72, and 11 were under 70.

Biggest blow-up of the day was made by Hoon, the leading coin collector. He posted a 32, four under par, on the first nine and was five under after the 14th. He took three straight bogies thereafter and came in with 69.

Twilight Game Prove Pain in Neck to Yanks

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

Associated Press Sports Writer

"Twilight" doubleheaders, baseball's wartime contribution to the working man, may mean a boost at the boxoffice for most of the teams, but they're a pain in the neck to the New York Yankees.

This unnatural distortion of the National Pastime is particularly displeasing to the Yankees for the simple reason that they find themselves now and then on the short end of the scores.

Possibly the Bombers still were mulling over their double defeat at Chicago in one of these new-fangled affairs Wednesday night, when they took the field at St. Louis yesterday to play the Browns in one game at 5 p. m. and a second at 8:30.

At any rate, they blew a five-run lead as the Browns handed them their third straight loss, 9-8, and they had to call on Spurgeon Chandler to put an end to such foolishness by blanking the Browns on three hits in the afterpiece, winning 8-0 and running his consecutive shutout innings to 23.

In the opener, the Browns came from behind with a 17-hit attack which routed Hank Borowy and routed Johnny Murphy to the mound just in time to save Borowy's record of ten victories and one defeat and also the loss himself, his fifth in a row.

A six-run rally in the sixth inning, in which George McQuinn homered with a man aboard and Mike Charak clouted a four-bagger with two on base, put the Browns ahead to stay.

The Boston Red Sox cut the Yankees' American League to a dozen games by nipping the Detroit Tigers in an afternoon game and the Cleveland Indians dropped a full game behind the second-place Red Sox when they bowed to the Philadelphia Athletics 6-4, a night affair.

Seven-hit pitching by Johnny Humphries carried the Chicago White Sox to a 7-2 triumph over the Washington Senators in another night contest, with Myril Hoag hitting a triple and double and Taft Wright a triple and single.

In the only game played in the National League, the Cincinnati Reds lightened their grip on third place by bumping the Boston Braves, 6-2, on a three-hit pitching job by Gene Thompson.

Two games, the St. Louis Cardinals against the Giants at New York and the Pittsburgh Pirates against the Phils at Philadelphia, were postponed.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

Wide World Sports Columnist

New York, Aug. 1—Connie Mack comes up with the idea that the major leagues will have to reduce their player limits next season "for the simple reason that there won't be enough players." ... Connie figures that such a reduction, particularly in pitching staffs, will improve the game. ... our idea is that enough minor leagues will fold up before next summer that there will still be a plentiful supply of players still out of the army but that the clubs likely will have to take a few that wouldn't ordinarily be major leaguers. ...

Feminine Figures

Bob Hoocy of the Ohio State Journal tells one about a feminine baseball fan who protested that his story of a game had credited the Columbus pitcher with too many strikeouts. ... Bob looked up his score book and verified that Preacher Roe had whiffed eleven rival batters that particular night. ... "Yes, he did," admitted the fan, "but at the same time he struck out twice himself. So doesn't two from eleven leave nine?" ... Maybe she had something there.

Service Dept.
Capt. Joe Dasher of Fort Leavenworth, Kas., speaks seven languages and has a working knowledge of 13 others, which makes him a pretty valuable man to the army intelligence department. ... but so far he hasn't had much use for still another language which he has used for ten years calling the plays to football scribes in the Pitt Stadium press box. ... Lake Russell, former Mercer U. football coach now stationed in Iceland, got the surprise of his life recently when he approached a sentry and instead of hearing the usual "who goes there" the challenge was "Hello, coach, pass by." ... Sure enough, the sentry was a Georgian boy. ... Bill Menke, former Indiana basketball player who did all right for the U. S. Navy Naval Training station last winter, has transferred his activities to the Iowa naval pre-flight school.

SECOND HONEYMOON

CHAPTER VIII

"I've taken a bath. I've brushed my teeth. I've shaved and dressed. But before I tuckie my hair, please tell me whether I have a date with you or not."

Bart stood in the doorway, grinning at her. Christie laughed, letting her eyes dwell admiringly on her handsome husband.

"You've a date with the family—a luncheon date. And you won't mind because you'll be the big shot. They're so proud of your uniform, the brass buttons, and especially the wings. Get set to tell them how good you are."

Just as she had foreseen, Mrs. Colton asked scores of questions. "But isn't it lonesome, Bart? All those boys had wives, sweethearts, mothers. They've been accustomed to going about, doing things. Then, suddenly, they're dumped into some place with nothing to do."

"Nothing to do?" Bart laughed. "Here you a hostess house?"

Mrs. Colton continued, "and do you have any fun?"

"Yes," Bart answered both of her questions. "We have shows, field meets, tea dances, suppers—oh, yes, we have fun in between practice flight, saber drills, aerial reviews, and the regular routine."

"That reminds me," Bart added. "Sandra drove to the field the other day. She has an idea that she'd be a good entertainer."

Christie didn't speak for a moment, afraid her irritation would show. Of course, Sandra had every right to visit the field, every right to become an entertainer if she wanted to. If this were not Bart's field, she'd probably agree that it was a good idea.

She lifted her eyes from her plate and smiled at Bart. "I imagine Sandra would be pretty good at that," she said. She thought Bart looked relieved.

A moment later, Christie glanced at her wrist watch. "Hate to run," she said. "But there's a meeting of my surgical dressing unit. I'm the instructor, Bart."

"Good for you," Bart looked doubtful. He added, "What am I supposed to do?"

"Jan, you and Mother keep Bart amused," Christie commanded. "I'll be through about 4:30."

BART was at his mother's the next morning when Jan came by the apartment.

"You're all bones again," Christie said seriously. "You and that cigaret habit—and I don't know why. Something on your mind?"

Jan was staring out of the window, moodily. She wheeled around: "Why don't you run around more with Bart when he's at home, instead of letting Sandra amuse him?"

"You forget I have a quota to meet. ... committee work—" she broke off. "Sandra! What in the world do you mean?"

"We all looked at Sandra's yesterday party—a good one, too. You should have seen the ridiculous skit she put on. ... and you should have seen her showing your husband a new 'jit-step'."

Christie frowned. "It doesn't sound dignified for an officer."

"I think he forgot he was an officer and was just a man," Jan replied.

"Why are you talking like this, Jan?" Christie asked in a low voice.

"Because I feel all mean inside, I guess." Jan's voice was bitter. "You've been quarreling with Stephen."

"No, it's worse than that. Stephen doesn't care enough to quarrel."

Christie said, "Maybe he does care. Men have a lot of pride when they feel they can't support a girl."

"It isn't that, either," Jan's voice was so low it was almost a whisper. "I think he cares for someone else."

"I shouldn't let it worry me," she said quickly before Christie could speak. "He's really an awful fool, Christie. He says the most awful things, and he is going to lose his job at the Wainwrights if he isn't careful. He talks about Versailles and what the Allies didn't do to stop future wars when they had the power—things like that. Betty Wainwright said he would make a perfect fifth columnist and she wasn't joking when she said it."

"It is silly of Stephen to say things people might misunderstand," Christie agreed. "He's as loyal as we are. But he will lose his job. I'm going to speak to him."

"I'm leaving my coat," Jan said, turning to go. "It's turning hot as blazes." She looked at Christie levelly: "Stephen is fortunate in having you for a little girl scout."

Christie hung Jan's coat up mechanically. Funny, Bart hadn't told her they had stopped by Sandra's. Maybe he didn't think it was important. Then, there was Stephen spouting off things which might not have sounded unpatriotic before the United States got in the war, but which had an almost treasonable sound now.

On an impulse she went to the telephone and called the Wainwright Chemical Co. She must warn Stephen. He was a nice boy with a mother to support—and Jan was certainly in love with him.

STEPHEN was out, the girl at the office said. She took the number and said she would ask him to call.

Christie was in her bath when the phone rang. Bart had come home, and she heard him answer.

When she came into the living room later, Bart was bowed over the afternoon paper. "Hello," he said. Christie stood near him, waiting. Then she stooped and kissed him.

"Hello, yourself. Your welcome is as cold as my shower. Did I hear the phone ring?"

"You did. It was your friend, Stephen. I was about to tell him he had a damn lot of nerve calling my wife, but just then he said he was answering your call."

"It was Christie," Christie said. She was about to explain why she had telephoned, and then decided against it. It would give Bart another reason for disliking Stephen.

Something in the deepening silence made Christie very angry. "Why didn't you tell me that you went by Sandra's?" she asked.

"I didn't think you were interested," Bart answered. "You were so deep in that lecture business."

"Coming from a fighting man who should know how essential all that 'business' is, your remark is a little strange," Christie said.

They were quarreling. She must be very careful. This was the first rift, and it could be widened by the wrong words.

"Bart," Christie said, "we're silly." She sat down on the arm of his chair. Bart reached up quickly, pulled her down on his lap and gathered her with kisses.

"I'm sane and sensible," he said. "But sometimes I think you haven't a brain in your head. I don't know why I love such a dim-wit."

"For the same reason that I love one," Christie laughed. She sat up straight. Forbidden words were still so tantalizingly near the tip of her tongue.

"Bart, you like Sandra."

"Of course. She's a nice girl—she's fun."

"Why don't you think up some superlatives," Christie flamed.

Anger was darkening in Bart's eyes.

"I won't have you going to Sandra's. I don't like her—and I don't trust her," Christie said.

"What I'm going to say has nothing to do with Sandra," Bart said, steadily. "I'm an individual, even though I'm married. And I don't take orders from anyone except a superior officer."

Whirlaway Gets Nod for Today's $25,000 Classic

Chicago, Aug. 1—(AP)—This was the race in which Whirlaway expected to match noses at the finish with Alsab. But the game little Alsab was on the sidelines until Monday's opener at Washington Park and today's $25,000 handicap, closing event on a 32-day program at Arlington, was between the long-tailed Whirly and "eight other horses."

A total bank roll of $31,000 was in the offing, if all nine horses start. Whirlaway's all-time earnings of $54,336 had a chance to be swelled by an additional $24,000 if Warren Wright's perennial champion come through again today.

By admission of Trainer Ben Jones, a fellow who ought to know, Whirlaway, was in tip-top shape for the Arlington windup. But anxious to test this declaration were Rounders, which finished second to Whirly in the Massachusetts Handicap; Siroco, 1940 Arlington Classic winner; Louis, 1940 Reading Classic winner; No Competition, Staretor, Best Seller, Pumpgun and Equitable.

Called up to provide the timing for Whirlaway's usual late rush to the front was Eddie Arcaro, who brought Shut Out home to win the Arlington Classic last Saturday. Arcaro flew here from Saratoga Springs for today's assignment.

Barnsdall No. 4 McClellane C NW NE section 13-15-24, was erecting derrick and plans were to get under way with drilling operations Monday night. The No. 5 McClellane C NE NE same section spudded this week and is now drilling ahead below 1000 feet. The company's McClellane Nos. 6 and 7 C SW NW and C SW NE of section 13-15-24 were clearing location. The McClellane No. 8 C SW NE of section 13-15-24 were clearing location. The McClellane No. 8 C SE NE same section was also spudded this week and drilling proceeds there at 1200 feet. The Powell No. 3 C NE NW section 12-15-24 drilled below 6000 feet.

Southwood Oil Company's Turner No. 1 C SW section 13-15-24 drilled below 6000 feet. Southwood-Makefield's Darnell No. 1 N-S-SE section 14-15-24 drilled below 500 feet. Frankel & Frankel & Riddell Pet. Corporation's Bodcaw No. 1 C SW NW section 17-15-24 was preparing to erect derrick.

In the Patton field south of Lewisville, Tidewater Associated Oil Company is nearing the pay sands at its Amanda Bendow No. 1 C NE NW section 32-17-24 with a depth of around 800 feet. In the deep McKamie gas distillate field, eight miles south of Stamps, Atlantic Refining Company was drilling ahead at its Bodcaw No. 10 C SE section 32-17-23 after making a second start with new drilling equipment. Total depth at present is 700 feet.

The Hope High School Band will resume regular rehearsals starting Monday night at Oglesby school, at 8 o'clock. Kenneth Crank, director announced today. Rehearsals will be held on Monday, Wednesday and Thursday nights.

All members who plan to play in the band this fall are urged to be present as placements will be made for vacancies. Any high school student wishing to join the band will meet at Oglesby school Tuesday morning, at 10 o'clock.

The band will play a concert on the Sanger stage, August 19 and all graduates are invited to play. After that date the group will start marching one night each week.

MACARTHUR PRAISED AS CENSOR-IN 1917

New York—(AP)—Newspapers of Apr. 7, 1917, carried dispatches under Washington, D. C., datelines that brought one Douglas MacArthur, then a major in the U. S. Army, into the headlines 25 years before Bataan.

Twenty-nine newspaper correspondents assigned to coverage of the War Department, the dispatches said, paid a joint call on War Secretary Newton D. Baker to present a commendation of "Major" MacArthur's work as military censor.

The commendation expressed the reporters' thanks and appreciation of the services of the military censor in expediting release of war news to the correspondents.

London—Wing Commander Max Aitken, son of Lord Beaverbrook, was awarded the Distinguished Service Order today. He is credited personally with the destruction of 12 German raiders.

Nazi Supply System Efficient After Years of Planning

The Nazis Now Have Plenty of Storage Space

By DeWITT MACKENZIE

Wide-World War Analyst

The amazing efficiency of the German military supply system, which permits use of the blitz tempo in such far-reaching operations as the present great offensive deep into Russia, has brought me requests for an explanation of the Nazi secret.

Well, there really isn't much secret about it. First off, the thoroughness on which efficiency must be based is a racial characteristic of the Germans. Then the Germans are a militaristic people who from the time they can walk are trained in the art of making war. Last but not least, barring the brief life of the republic after the first war, the Germans long have been under dictatorial rule, and it has been demonstrated that absolutism often can produce efficiency, because there's only one cook to pull the broth.

As regards the Hitlerian brand of efficiency, when we try to compare his military machine with those of the late-starting Allies we must remember that he spent years of intensive preparation for this war. To illustrate:

My colleague, Alvin Steinkopf, who has just returned home from internment in Germany after many years in Europe as Associated Press and Wide-World correspondent, tells me that the Nazis showed in some of their army food reserves when the Polish campaign began. Colossal supplies had been massed. In Berlin, for example, meat halls and even half a dozen eating rinks were filled with meat. There were similar sights throughout the Reich.

As to gasoline, Steinkopf was informed that every car in Germany was full, and there were instances of tanks of cars being held for lack of storage facilities. That was in the beginning, of course, but as he significantly remarked:

"There's plenty of storage room in Germany today."

Examples of the meticulous care with which the Germans prepared every move would fill a library. For instance, not only were their troops given fiercely rigorous physical training to make them hard as nails for campaigning, but they rehearsed difficult military maneuvers which they were to undertake against the enemy. Thus, in Czechoslovakia, the German army served to represent the French Maginot line for Nazi troops to experiment on. The supply system has been a level of perfection, though it deteriorated because of lack of gasoline for highway and air transport, and because the railroads are going to pot through lack of equipment. But at the beginning of the war it was as near perfect as things come.

In the case of Poland, years before the war German engineers figured out just where new highways would be needed for the invasion and just how much cement would be necessary to build them. As a result, when Hitler flung his legions into the unhappy country, the highways followed almost as if the Nazi troops could move. When Hitler invaded Russia his engineers changed the wide gauge ways over to the standard European gauge so quickly that they were on the line to Smolensk—some miles—altered about a month after the city was captured.

Fuehrer, of course, has used the scheme of living off invaded countries so far as possible. He has bled them white, forced countless thousands to starve. At the same time, he has moved agricultural machinery right along with his army, started intensive cultivation as soon as possible.

Efficiency can't continually rabbits out of an empty hat. It can't make bread out of thin earth such as he is endeavoring to. Hitler has been armed men will spring up to fight him.

Dispatch from the Voronezh in the upper Don said three paratroopers had been captured in Red Army uniforms wearing faked Russian dog tags.

Hollywood Is Back on Farm

By ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood—Station wagons still run around town with facitious insignia such as "No Tingo Rancho" and "No Rancho Yet" but for a growing list of movie stars the kidding no longer applies.

The return to the soil hasn't reached the point where all Hollywood got ranches, but more and more are thinking in terms of acreage and dreaming sentimentally of bumper crops of alfalfa, citrus, nuts or home-grown peas.

The Hollywood ranch isn't the joke it used to be. When the glamour gal of other years wearied of her colossal town house with its marble baths and expensively boring swimming pool parties, she bought herself an acre in the country, put a fence around it, and posed for the photographers in dungarees, dainty rake in hand, among her tomatoes. She generally made coy revelations as to how expensive a business her "ranching" was and she really shouldn't afford it, she said, but after all it was a relief to get away from the artificiality of it all and worth it.

Hollywood's new type farmer is like Ginger Rogers—serious about it. When Ginger bought her ranch near Medford, Ore., last year, Hollywood couldn't exactly see its red head as a farmerette, a thousand miles from the cameras. But Ginger wasn't planning a farming career for herself, not just then. She meant business. The 4-R (Rogers' Rogue River Ranch) is intended to be a paying outfit, as well as a between-pictures vacation spot for Ginger. Ginger's mother, Lela Rogers, spends most of her time there. She came down to play Ginger's mother in a movie, but she stayed only four days and hied back to the 1,100 acres where dairy products are going to market daily.

Hollywood has had some real ranchers for years—Harry Carey, up near Saugus, homesteaded his place nearly 30 years ago, and that easy riding Harry does on the screen comes from long practice in rounding up his own stock. Joel McCrea is somewhat newer at the game, but he too is a veteran. Some years he has had to support his ranch from picture earnings, some years he has broken even, but last year he cleared $5,000 from his sideline and looks to do better this year.

This year looks good for Victor McLaglen, too. Vic has a sprawling slice of landscape up near Fresno where the porkers will bring the bacon home to Vic. About $35,000 worth, he figures, including income from fruit. That's gross, and he hasn't figured net profit yet.

Alan Curtis and Ilona Massey are profit-minded farmers by proxy, up in northern California. Fred MacMurray's farm is up there, too. It was once a prune ranch, but Fred has introduced a variety of crops. Preston Foster, the hearty seaman, has joined the ranch brigade and will talk hayrakes and harrows as enthusiastically as he used to talk boats.

U. S. Planes

Guadalcanal about six weeks ago, apparently with the intention of establishing air bases there, a spokesman said. The island is one of the southernmost of the group, which extends in a chain for about 600 miles to the southeast of New Britain. Bougainville, northernmost of the group, was occupied by the enemy some time ago.

On the Papuan peninsula of New Guinea, where Allied and Japanese patrols have clashed recently within 60 miles of Port Moresby, advance Allied base, the land situation was described as "static," but Allied bombers raided the Japanese-occupied village of Buna started two large fires.

The government wants it understood that there is no ban on amateur photography. There is no effort being made to discourage the photographers. But it asks you to remember that the purpose of all wartime regulations is to withhold information of value to the enemy. That's why industrial plants are forbidden. . . . Those plants may be making bomb sights. . . . A picture might pave the way for sabotage. That's why certain bridges and rail terminals are forbidden. A seemingly harmless film, in the wrong hands, might result in tangled communications and a great loss in life.

Outside of that there's nothing to worry about. Honey, take that chewing gum out of your mouth and lean against this marble fount for a moment. I want to take your picture.

Flank attacks and the use of small tanks to protect river landings have supplanted frontal assaults by massed tanks in the German bid for Caucasian oil, the newspaper Red Star said.

This shift in a campaign in which Nazi Field Marshal Fedor Von Bock has mixed straight power drives and encirclement attempts, the flying wedge and the psychological attack, was attributed by Red Star to the vast losses the invaders had suffered in machines as well as manpower.

Soviet pilots, some flying Boston bombers and Airacobra fighters from United States factories, fought German aircraft and started Nazi ground forces in the sea—a battle of the steps.

Five plans and 300 men were reported sacrificed by the Nazi command in vain attacks on Soviet positions on the Leningrad front.

"In the bareness sea," the information bureau said, "an enemy transport of 15,000 tons has been sunk."

Photographers Get in Dutch

New York — It's like this. . . . You're an amateur photographer, and you take your camera out for an ordinary Sunday stroll, and before you know it you're in trouble. The war has done this. It has clamped down on more than 800,000 amateur photographers in Greater New York.

As yet, there's no ban on carrying and using cameras, but it is strictly up to the individual to find out whether he is trespassing on forbidden ground or shooting forbidden subjects. Ignorance is no excuse. You have to find out for yourself in every locality what you can shoot and what you can't. Provisions, in the metropolitan area at least, have been made for this information to be forthcoming.

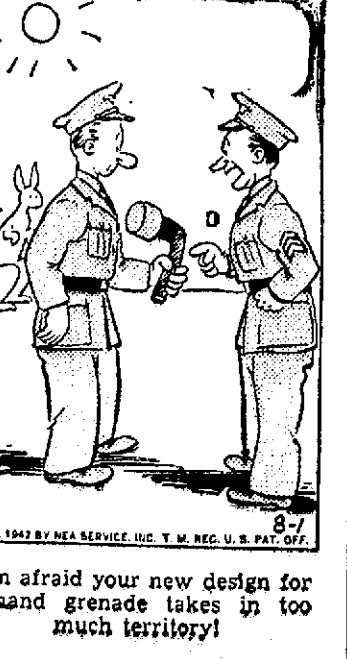

A good idea is to carry plenty of identification with you in the event you are out to get some filler—subjects for the family album. Your driver's license is okay.

One sure way to get into trouble is to go about with a concealed camera. Carry it openly. If you're in doubt about any subject, ask a cop.

One thing is sure. . . . you can't photograph troop movements. . . . If you see a column of men swinging along the road, don't take it. . . . Don't shoot a tank, or a column of jeeps. . . . If you fly in a commercial plane, leave your camera at home or keep it locked up. . . . Taking pictures from the air is expressly forbidden. Ditto along sea coast areas or other forbidden sectors. . . . Don't photograph ships. . . . Don't photograph industrial plants. . . . Don't photograph aircraft complements, or searchlights. . . . If you do, you will have a hard time explaining it. . . . As they say, ignorance is no excuse. . . . and the FBI can be very, very tough.

The government wants it understood that there is no ban on amateur photography. There is no effort being made to discourage the photographers. But it asks you to remember that the purpose of all wartime regulations is to withhold information of value to the enemy. That's why industrial plants are forbidden. . . . Those plants may be making bomb sights. . . . A picture might pave the way for sabotage. That's why certain bridges and rail terminals are forbidden. A seemingly harmless film, in the wrong hands, might result in tangled communications and a great loss in life.

Market Report

NEW YORK STOCKS

By ICTOR EUBANK

New York, Aug. 1.—(P)—Ralls continued to maintain rising leadership in today's stock market while many industrial seemed to have run out of recovery steam.

Week-end hesitancy ruled at the start, bidding being restricted by thoughts of possibly depressing war bulletins over Sunday. Even those with bullish inclinations kept commitments light and a lot of pivotal issues never registered on the ticker tape. Minor fractional advances were well distributed at the close although the minus column was fairly well filled.

Transfers for the two hours were in the neighborhood of 100,000 shares.

POULTRY AND PRODUCE

Chicago, Aug. 1.—(P)—Butter receipts 1,032,024 pounds. Eggs, 9,779 cases. No prices available. Potatoes arrivals 60; on track 165; total U. S. shipments 386; supplies light; demand fair; western long whites about steady; Idaho Bliss Triumphs U. S. No. 1, 2.45-65; long whites U. S. No. 1, 4.10; Washington long whites U. S. No. 1, 4.05; Nebraska Red Warbas and triumphs U. S. No. 1, 2.25-35; commercial 2.10-15; cobbler's commercial 2.10-15.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS

Chicago, August 1.—(P)—Wheat prices fell fractions to new seasonal lows and corn more than a cent to botto quotations for a month. Wheat later recovered most of the today as the grain futures market absorbed hedging sales against dealer purchases of large amounts of cash grain to come to Chicago. Wheat later recovered most of the loss.

Dealers bought more than 100,000 bushels of corn and practically as much wheat to arrive here. The wheat, new No. 1 northern spring, was taken from a large northwest elevator concern for August delivery reportedly at a price slightly below the September future. However, some traders said hedging sales in the wheat pit were lighter than might have been expected.

Wheat closed 3-8 lower to 1-8 higher compared with yesterday, September $1.16 3-8, December $1.19 3-8-1-2; corn 7-8-1-8 lower, September 87 3-4-7-8, December 90 1-2-3-8; oats 1-8-14 off; soy beans 18-14 higher, rye 1-8-3-8 down.

will not be able to handle this heavy load. What are the options? One is to puncture the price ceiling by a cent or a cent and a half a pound. Another is to fix the price of livestock.

A third is to continue as we are with the raisers deprived of a market, wholesalers and retailers losing money, packers forced out of business, and meat scarce for consumers.
